

grep commands finds given patterns in file and return lines having the pattern. -e option is allowing it to search more than one pattern and also allows you to search for patterns starting with "-". I have selected grep command since while writing code compiling – running checking manual was taking time so I selected grep to read it more efficiently. I selected -e because when I see it I become very happy because I found the solution.